YWCA NIAGARA REGION
Onsite Transitional Housing Programs

YWCA Mission Statement:
The YWCA Niagara Region is part of a national and worldwide movement that is passionate about empowering women and their families by providing safe, supportive housing and programs and creating opportunities for all women to reach their full potential.

Philosophy of Care Statement:
We provide the highest quality of care in a respectful, compassionate and dignified manner.

The YWCA's Onsite Program is a Transitional Housing Program that is designed to provide safe, affordable, transitional housing for up to one year. The program is designed for single women and is located within our Emergency Shelters both in St. Catharines and Niagara Falls. The program is a maximum support program, and is the first phase of housing through the YWCA Niagara Region. This program was built to assist women who may face barriers to alternate housing and require more support. The program is individualized to meet the specific needs of each participant. While engaged within the program each individual will work with a Case Worker on self-identified goals to ensure that the resident is able to leave the program into successful independent housing. This is done by meeting with the participants monthly to go over short and long term goals.

Good day,

I am very keen on applying my diverse skill set to assisting, in particular, victims of domestic violence and/or social injustice. My practical legal experience includes winning a precedent-setting Motion against a seasoned lawyer in Family Court while being self-represented: I received leave to seek damages for my husband's multiple violations of both civil law and the Criminal Code of Canada.

(See letter to the editor:

https://www.pressreader.com/canada/ottawa-citizen/20180825/281736975311962).

As you will see from my resumé (https://pfi.rocks/resume-deirdre-moore), I converted my formal training as a Chartered Financial Analyst (with an Honours Bachelor of Business Administration) into a successful, process improvement consulting career in 2003. Since 2017, however, my attempts to divorce a malicious ex has been fraught with endless false allegations, fraud and legal bullying. Accordingly, I also have experience with family law, civil law, criminal law and small claims court; as well as child protection services.

I have recently been told by the St. John's Status of Women Council that my legal documents are incredible: I've drafted many Affidavits and Factums and could easily provide samples of my work.

My diverse and in-depth experience with the legal system and how it operates dovetails into my professional expertise and formal education perfectly.

As far as my ability to interpret complex information including, but not limited to, legislation is concerned, I spent 10 years writing an investment/macro-economic magazine for a major investment company where I explained complex financial information to physicians and their family members who had little to no experience with investment jargon—I can easily do the same with legal jargon in order to assist your clients.

With respect to the administrative portion of any job, my MS Excel skills are guru-level and I tend to automate most repetitive tasks. Also, a self-taught programmer, I use Microsoft's VBA to automate report generation that could be used by senior management to present your organization's operational success/importance to existing stakeholders and/or potential donors.

I also envision being in a position to market your services as I remain involved in "Access to Justice" circles (see more at https://pfi.rocks/the-darkumentary).

Confident that I would quickly become a valuable member of your team, I thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Deirdre Moore

MD Financial May 2005 – Jan 2015
Investment Manager Liaise/External Writer

In 2005, MD Financial outsourced the production of its quarterly performance report to me. As part of this work, I developed a methodology that would standardize the information being collected from their external portfolio managers. Following each quarter end, upon assessment of the information received, I produced a thorough investment commentary that discussed each manager's performance relative to a benchmark. The production process involved 20 external managers from a variety of areas of expertise including domestic and international equity, fixed income, alternative investment, foreign exchange and macroeconomics.

Responsibilities included:
- Full analysis of financial risks of all lines of business being pursued by federally-regulated life insurance companies; and
- Full analysis of financial risks of new ventures being pursued by federally-regulated deposit-taking institutions.
- Preparation of Recommendations for Approval by the Superintendent or the Minister of Finance.

City of Ottawa Oct 1994 – Sep 1995
Treasury Analysis/Financial Reporting/Process Improvement

Hired to assist with money market and fixed income portfolio management, I also developed an application for the Debt and Treasury Department which automatically tracked all trading activity and produced various management reports for senior management and City officials.

MD Financial Sep 1992 – Sep 1994
Treasury Analysis/Financial Reporting/Process Improvement

Hired to assist with the cash management operations, I developed MS Excel tools (advanced formulas, VBA) and templates to automate much of the workload. Two of the more significant applications were:

1) An application that automatically tracked all trading activity for the MD Management Investment and Corporate Accounts. Outputs included printed forms for cheque requisition and audit purposes as well as a summary of the total investments. The system also automatically assessed the portfolios in terms of investment policies to ensure outliers were easily identified. The system was built solely in Excel and reduced a 2-hour/day administrative task to a 30-minute/day task with added functionality and a significant reduction in the opportunity for error.

2) An application which automatically produced quarterly performance reports for twelve different investment portfolios. The reports—which included graphics, numerical analysis and automated text discussion—were presented to the Board of Directors each quarter. This information was used to facilitate external manager oversight. Upon completion of the system, the reports that previously required 10 days/quarter required one day/quarter. A significant reduction in the opportunity for error was also realized. During this period, I managed several money market portfolios and also had the opportunity to assist with the testing/implementation of a (beta) attribution analysis system for the firm's equity portfolios.

Entrepreneurial Efforts: AdvisorOnTrack Inc.

On the side, in 2002 I launched a company, AdvisorOnTrack, in order to pursue the development of a practice management methodology for independent investment advisors. Using MS Excel and MS Access, I built an application which classified, analyzed and reported on over 15,000 different records (mutual funds, common and preferred shares). This system utilized a series of forms and reports to ensure users with only a basic knowledge of Access were able to easily maintain/amend the database, calculation pages and report templates as required. The system provided a level of analysis that was previously unavailable and tested very well. Although not profitable, the company was generating revenue. I moved the system to an online platform using MySql and PHP. However, shortly thereafter, the industry consolidated (banks bought brokerage firms, financial planning companies merged). This period of consolidation brought with it a period of significant investment in IT by banks and their competition. The market for AdvisorOnTrack vanished.
