Dear Ms. Moore

In this matter you served a Notice of Motion on January 31, 2018 with a paragraph Affidavit.

We immediately advised you that you had selected a date where I was already scheduled to be in court and thus the matter needed to be adjourned. You indicated that you would adjourn, but then changed your mind.

On March 9 you served a new affidavit with 45 paragraphs and attachments (which were not identified as Exhibits) together with a financial statement.

Again, I am not available March 22 and, in any event, now require time to properly respond to the new Affidavit.

Please confirm by the end of day March 15 that you consent to an adjournment, failing which I will have to have someone else attend to argue the adjournment request. I will need to have Mr. Kiska prepare a preliminary affidavit and instruct counsel. This will result in costs which will be claimed against you. This email will be used in court on the issue of those costs.
