Executive Summary

In my opinion, nobody wants to get involved in this case.

Currently, there is a seemingly unavoidable opportunity for abusive partners to exploit public services by providing false information in order to divert attention away from their abusive conduct. I have proof of this: I have had to endure this and so have my children.

Most of the witnesses named herein have been instrumental in our survival; however, each seems limited in their ability to provide written corroboration at this time.

This document represents my best efforts to comply with Your Honour's Court Order dated October 17, 2018, as well as prepare for trial, during the allotted 10-week period.

My Approach to Requesting Expert Reports, Will-Say Statements and Letters

My first task was to develop a list of questions that I would ask each of the psychiatrists during the trial. Once complete, I then compiled 26 documents that served as an "Overview" of my past six years' experience with my now estranged husband, Jonathan Kiska. Along with Your Honour's endorsement of October 17, 2018, this list of questions and Overview served as the basis of my request for Expert Reports, Will-Say statements and letters.

Then, I:

1. Developed a custom list of questions for those who were not psychiatrists.
2. Emailed my request to the witnesses identified in Your Honour's endorsement.
3. Hand-delivered hard copies of my request to those who were accessible (for ease of reference).
4. Followed-up by phone and/or email until Friday, December 28, 2018.
5. Organized the results in this package as Tab 1: Exhibits A – R
6. Prepared a summary of responses that can be found in the table on page 2.

Where I was unable to receive an Expert Report, Will-Say Statement of Letter, I included any documentation that I was able to gather which would indicate either my level of effort to retain such and/or evidence that I am and have always been a very involved mother and not the severely-ill woman that Mr. Kiska has, for years, purported me to be.

Truthful Summation of Marital Conflict

There have been three separations in three years and each one was initiated by Ms. Moore:

- Ms. Moore first separated from Mr. Kiska in September 2014 following a 10-week hospitalization for a mental illness that she did not and does not have: Bi-polar Disorder. He begged her to return and she did.
- Ms. Moore then separated from Mr. Kiska in September 2015 after discovering proof that Mr. Kiska had lied to psychiatrists in both 2013 and 2014 which resulted in mis-diagnosis, mis-treatment and extended hospitalizations. HOWEVER, before she could serve upon Mr. Kiska a Form 8A Application for Cruelty, Mr. Kiska served upon Ms. Moore a bogus Form 8 Application in November 2015. Following five months of chaos, she felt forced to return to Mr. Kiska .... and, reluctantly, she did.
- In November 2016, Ms. Moore realized that she could no longer endure Mr. Kiska's escalating emotional and psychological abuse. Immediately, she notified the Children's Aid Society of her plans to leave Mr. Kiska for the third and final time. Somehow aware of her intentions, however, Mr. Kiska first texted a notice of separation to her. It's been a nightmare ever since.

Conclusion

In 2013, Ms. Moore did develop a situational (vs. a chronic) mental illness: Brief Psychotic Disorder with known stressors. She remains adamant that the "known stressor" is Mr. Kiska's general demeanour and hostile behaviour toward her. In addition to the substantial amount of evidence contained within the Continuing Record, Ms. Moore has amassed six years' worth of e-mails, medical files, CAS reports, OPS reports and other documents which verify each claim within her amended Answer. She has no doubt that testimony from witnesses, if allowed, would bring to life the volatility which she and her children have endured.
