

John 10:1 reminds us that “he who does not enter the sheepfold by the door but climbs in by another way, that man is a thief and a robber”.

While pressing for information about what I had done to deserve a ban, Spivey stated “we have a Behavior Policy” as if I had somehow violated it. When I asked to see a copy, however, he refused to produce one. Perhaps it is as non-existent as the RITI Conflict Resolution Policy which, for all I know, is being developed as I endure their nonsense (see <https://twb.rocks/riti/riti-conflict-resolution-process> for eventual conclusion). By now, everyone should be in a position to comprehend why I am concerned that Nashville's City Council is considering doubling the RITI budget (see Image 025): there are so many red flags that I'm worried I'll have to switch to another color to highlight the lack of oversight or accountability.

“There are so many red flags that I'm worried I'll have to switch to another color to highlight the lack of oversight or accountability.”

When I asked Spivey, “what happens when I arrive to for the free lunch?”, he informed me that the police would be called. (Of course, we know what the charge would be: trespassing. That's the classic modus operandi that all infiltrated not-for-profits use when they want to keep their [shenanigans] going.)

Reminder: The initial ban began when I sought feedback from RITI's Community Development team on my draft flyer that would promote RITI and its Points Program (see Images 1 (a), 1(b) and 2) to both:

- the newly displaced/“homeless” who I was meeting throughout the day and
- retailers/services who could offer something of value to those forced to recover from some life event.²

“Shouldn't a Gift Card for Goodwill be a no-brainer?”

As I was not yet legally in a position to seek employment, volunteering my expertise for [what-I-thought-was-a-good-cause] seemed like a win-win for me: I could introduce myself to Nashville while helping a church and its congregation. RITI however, does not seem to want its congregation to grow or to receive additional donations that would assist its existing patrons.

“What kind of church doesn't want its congregation or its donation base to increase?!”

At time of writing, no one has provided to me any concrete reasons for my ban or threat of police involvement. Accordingly, still at a loss to comprehend RITI management's aggressive response, I've arrived at a few possibilities:

However, all of those reasons would require some familiarity with my work and/or my website and, on 20260729, both Hester and Sananikone admitted that they had none. That leaves only one possible reason, in my experienced opinion: monkey business.

Reasons for my ban from this “church”

At time of writing, no one has provided to me any concrete reasons for my ban. Accordingly, at a loss to comprehend RITI management's aggressive response, I've arrived at 12 possibilities (see insert below).

1. That I am a female and RITI:
 - a) is situated next to the Nashville Rescue Mission for men plus
 - b) serves many of the men who've chosen to sleep on the street instead of the shelter (due to the severe infestations of bedbugs, body lice and street drugs that remains unaddressed),
2. That I am 60 years old and, despite my education, skillset³⁰ and energy, I am less likely to find employment than a younger patron (and they prefer more of a “turnstile” congregation),
3. That I am a Canadian seeking asylum in the United States³¹ (so not native to Tennessee and therefore a lower priority),
4. That I am a follower of Jesus, but not a Catholic (while RITI is part of some Catholic Business League (see Images 028-032),
5. That I am aware of the Noahide Laws which the Vatican endorsed by accepting “Chislam” (and Texas' Governor Greg Abbott supported)³²,
6. That I serve Him³³ by, primarily, sharing my Eschatological View³⁴ in order to help those who remain fully deceived,
7. That I have been exposing Elon Musk for several years³⁵ and one of his operations, The Boring Company, is now [wreaking unknown havoc] under Nashville's Music Loop (see Images 034-036),
8. That I have been exposing the human-trafficking, human-experimentation and fraud occurring in New York's Healthcare Industry³⁶ while that same industry is a top employer for Nashville,
9. That I have published evidence against Amazon³⁷, another of Nashville's “top” employers,
10. That I published photographs of [whatever the heck] is being built at 2nd & Commerce³⁸,
11. That I published my thoughts on Las Vegas, Nevada's new [Baal Park]³⁹ while Nashville also builds a new [colosseum] and/or
12. That I have learned that the field of Geology disseminates incredibly false information⁴⁰ while Vanderbilt University remains another of the city's top employers.]
